Comments

Rock Creek Cattle Company is a Tom Doak design set in the foothills of the Flint Creek Mountain Range just outside Deer Lodge, MT. The internship offers students an excellent opportunity to learn turfgrass management practices at a high end private mountain club. Our goal is to provide an environment that will be a stepping stone to a career in turfgrass management through field work, education, and crew management. Students will take from the experience what they are willing to put into it. Learning opportunities include equipment operation and maintenance, course setup and detail, pesticide and fertilizer calibration/application, irrigation field work including troubleshooting/repair, as well as tournament prep strategies as they pertain to conditioning, irrigation, and fertility.
